

American Red Cross' Summer Campaign: 100 Days of Summer, 100 Days of Hope

July 14, 2015: Summer is typically a time of year when blood donations decrease. Donors have a variety of other commitments – from vacations and travel to events and time spent with family and friends – all of which keep even routine donors from scheduling appointments. American Red Cross' summer campaign is the "100 Days of Summer, 100 Days of Hope" sponsored by Suburban Propane. This program is one of the largest volunteer efforts in support of saving lives through blood donations. The theme, "100 Days of Summer, 100 Days of Hope" gives a time frame with a subtle sense of urgency to summer donations. It reminds donors, blood drive coordinators and volunteers of their opportunity to give hope. The campaign also encourages donors to give regularly, especially around key summer holidays when donations often decline. In order to combat this drastic decline in blood donations, we must create new and innovative ways to increase blood donations to supply VA and civilian hospitals.

In conjunction with the American Red Cross and Suburban Propane summer partnership, the Alabama News Network has agreed to promote and host "The Alabama News Network Blood Donor Block Party" at Eastdale Mall in Montgomery on July 16th from 10a.m. to 8p.m. We giving away gift cards, food, special blood drive t-shirts, and a $10 Visa gift card sponsored by Suburban Propane for all presenting donors. This is a local celebration where blood donors come together and help the community by donating blood and saving lives. We are asking you to partner with American Red Cross to registered 10 employees/family/friends to donate blood at this event.
